

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method comprising constraining a circumference of a blank of a Cu-Mo alloy and one of surfaces to be worked with the use of a die, and using a working punch or a counter punch to apply working pressures to the other of the surfaces to be worked, thereby obtaining a cup-shaped body.